

Symphony

Libra
Full Moon 2009

Each month we present a short text by Daniel Levy, a world-renowned classical pianist and the Co-Founder and Director of the International Academy of Euphony.

He is giving expression to a synthesis of modern and traditional Wisdom of Sound and Music and its therapeutic, cathartic, educational, psychological and aesthetic effects on the human being.

"Music and the Arts are defined as realities that penetrate the spiritual and physical levels and as instruments of knowledge and transformation for an enriching human coexistence."

As a Prayer

As a prayer, the inspired Schiller's poem is the soul of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Let listen this Music, meditating the words as mantras that open our hearts.

Can you sense the Creator, oh World ? Seek him above the starry canopy.
Above the stars He must dwell.

Joy, daughter of Elysium
Thy magic reunites those Whom stern custom has parted;
All men will become brothers
Under thy gentle wing.

Be embraced, Millions!
This kiss for all the world!
Brothers!, above the starry canopy
A loving father must dwell.

Joy, beautiful spark of Gods!,
Daughter of Elysium,
Joy, beautiful spark of Gods

daniel.levy@academyofeuphony.com
www.academyofeuphony.com