Each month we present a short text by Daniel Levy, a world-renowned classical pianist and the Co-Founder and Director of the International Academy of Euphony.

He is giving expression to a synthesis of modern and traditional Wisdom of Sound and Music and its therapeutic, cathartic, educational, psychological and aesthetic effects on the human being.

"Music and the Arts are defined as realities that penetrate the spiritual and physical levels and as instruments of knowledge and transformation for an enriching human coexistence."

RESONANT SEEDS (Part 7)

Art is deeply linked with civilisation, announcing the patterns of change. The role of the artist is to prepare the way to new insights, without limitation or prejudice. I believe that at this point of transition it will be the artist - in the highest sense of the word - who will be one of the principal guides to the next step.

The goal of the coming decades is to enlarge the vision of music through global education and experience, with new ways of participation and application of knowledge. The first step is to help musicians to experience the significance of what they are doing; how radiation of consciousness is necessary when we sing or play an instrument, how everything is connected with life. Some of the forms of the role of music are music therapy, catharsis, communication, harmonic relationship, creative contact and healing of the Earth. But its essential role is to express carefully, joyously and scientifically, with a new Sound, the Love that permeates the Universe.
